1. Termination of Employment

Revature provided changing explanations for the separation. Initially, Revature insisted I was not being terminated but instead I should expect a mutual release agreement due to lack of demand. I initially thought they were laying me off. They also cited that I'd been on beach for a certain amount of time, even though I wasn't actually being put forth for clients for most of that time. I then received a termination letter saying my commitment was not complete. Subsequent to that I received a request to sign a mutual release agreement. Around the same time, I noticed Revature was advertising the hiring of a large number of people, so they were willing to hire all of those new positions but there was no more work for someone who'd already gone through their training, obtained industry certificates, and been with them for more than a year? Revature again changed the explanation for the separation once I filed a charge with EEOC, saying that I was terminated because I was a poor performer, wanted special treatment, and refused to complete tasks- even though these things are not true.

2. Failure to Accommodate Disability (2 instances)

a. Refusal to provide a space for text in the first so-called panel after i'd been communicating with HR about their reasonable accommodations process and reaching out to HR and Management about scheduling the panel.

b. HR stopped communicating with me and claimed my emails went to spam even though there is no way my emails went to spam in reality with how epam actually works. The delay to have the actual interactive conversation was needlessly long (months) and I had to go through multiple people. It was as if they were waiting for me to quit in the meantime because all of my attempts to connect about day-to-day expectations want ignored and this was after one of the managers described my need to use text as primary communication as a problem. There was no real interactive discussion for what accommodations would work or wouldn't work even though I presented a proposal, and even though it was known that I used text to communicate instead of speech on a regular basis.

3. Unequal terms and conditions of my employment

The time between 7/21 and 11/21 was a period of isolation, deception, a refusal to enage with me, threats of witholding pay, reduced hours because I complained about discrimination, and pass lightning that fundamentally altered my employment.

4. Retaliation (6 instances)

- a. Reduced hours because I complained about discrimination.
- b. Reveture choosing not to assign me to Accenture.
- c. Revature choosing not to assign me to Fidelity and refusing to help me prepare for the interview where the job description specifically referenced varying styles of communication.
- d. Manager rejecting my portfolio for approval after complaining about discrimination.

- e. Revature only willing offer me an interview with a temp agency after complaining about discrimination, when before the opportunities were with companies looking to hire permanent employees.
- f. Termination because I refused to accept the discrimination.

5. Confidentiality

Revature asked me to send information that is to be treated as a confidential medical record in the form of an unencrypted email attachment.

Addendum to Charge Filed with EEOC - Taylor V. Revature LLC - Page 1 of 1

Feb 10, 2022, I file charge of discrimination with EEOC

March 7, 2022, I received a request from EEOC to resolve the charge through their mediation program, and I agreed to work with the mediation program.

March 14, 2022, I received notice that Revature declined mediation.

April 13, 2022, I received Revature's response letter that contained a lot of false information, and some of what they wrote really served no purpose other than an attempt to humiliate me. The Response letter also didn't address the hostile environment claim or the retaliation claims.

July 21, 2022, EEOC closed the investigation and issued a right to sue latter because I did not feel safe sharing so much information digitally without any type of in-person meeting.

August 2nd, 2022, I wrote to the Attorney listed on the right to sue letter, Edward Isler, requesting an attempt to resolve amigably. I followed up about this on August 22, 2022. I did not get any response.

Enclosed is a description of events that I believe constitute unlawful discrimination. I believe I was discriminated against because of a speech disability and because I requested an accommodation for the same. Please note I was employed via Respondent A for what was originally agreed to as two year employment with option for a third year. I was first demoted, and then terminated. I think there is sufficient evidence for a hostile environment and failure to provide a reasonable accommodation.

The Respondent A is: Revature LLC 11730 Plaza America Drive, 2nd Floor Reston, VA 20190 703 570 8181

Document entitled "Unlawful Discrimination Because of Disability, Hostile Work Environment" (21 pages)

Unlawful Discrimination because of Disability . Hostile work environment

Most of this document is about July 2021 to November 2021 but below is a reference to July 2020 in case of Continuing Violation. Also see the concerns for pattern and practice document.

on July 17, 2020, I received an email from the Senior Trainer Harvey with the subject of technical requirements, about using a microphone and a camera, instead of text. I'm not sure if it was before or after this email, but we eventually discussed my need to use written word for learning and communication purposes. We agreed that I would use the chat feature in zoom meetings. I also used the chat for group projects.

Note: Respondent A's employee handbook has an ADA policy that says 'we don't have to give you an accommodation'. I just found it a little intimidating.

The transition to bench memo indicated that I wouldn't be eligible for payroll until after I passed a panel and I would be eligible for client Recieved by FFOC Washington Field Office November 18, 2021 interviews only after panel and portfolio. I didn't understand why I was having an interview on July 26, 2021, the first day of Respondent A's bench, and not the panel.

On July 27, 2021, I sent an email to Antony asking about the day-to-day expectations. It seemed like the interviewer from July 26 wanted to hire me (the last thing we discussed was scheduling). However, I was concerned about the time between July 27 and when I would join the next client. Onboarding took about a month for the first client (Respondent B). Now, with the Transition to Bench memo, Respondent A was effectually telling me to go without pay... By July 27, 2021, I'd already reached out multiple times for multiple weeks about the panel with no schedule.

The "Transition to Bench" memo said I wasn't eligible for pay until I passed the panel, didn't indicate anything outside of the panel or portfolio, and all my attempts to get the panel scheduled hadn't been answered. My questions about the portfolio/resume also went unanswered.

On July 29, 2021, I received an email from Antony, asking if I was ready to panel the next Monday. I sent an email back asking about Client interview, about the benching document, also mentioning that I'd been reaching out for 3 weeks about scheduling the panel... even paneling on the next Monday meant no pay for an entire week.

I received a message to my phone (July 29, 2021) from another employee named Vivek, stating "the staging manager wants to schedule a call with you today, please let me know your convenient time" - I said anytime was fine. I then got text messages from Antony asking about medical documentation and "how long you are gonna have this problem", and then suggested that the panel should be the following wednesday, instead of Monday, adding two more days of not being eligible for pay, At this point, I still wasn't even sure what material the panel would cover.

On July 30, I received an email from HR, saying there was a notification of a potential accommodation request with an optional form. I wrote back that same day with answers to the form.

I got zero response from HR until August 13, 2021, even though I followed up August 6, 2021, and included Jalisa (the person who sent the accommodation form) as a recipient for all emails I sent to Respondent A's staff from July 30, 2021 - August 11, 2021 (total of five emails beyond the response for the accommodation form).

I was forced to use all my accrued time off while the management staff and HR staff were ignoring me. So for the week of July 26, I used 32 of my hours, and those were the only hours I clocked. I didn't clock hours for Monday July 26, 2021 because Respondent said I wasn't yet eligible for pay, even though Respondent scheduled me for an interview that day.

About the accrued time off, I should have been able to plan the use of those hours, not be forced to use them because the staff sent me a memo saying I wouldn't be paid until I completed a panel but then refused to share the panel information or schedule it. No one said anything when I didn't log hours after the week of July 26,2021 until communications with HR on August 24, 2021, so if they weren't intentionally ignoring me then why didn't they even bother to reach out, like hey, where are you?

August 2021

On August 9th, I received a panel invite at 3:40pm, with a time frame of being open until 5:00pm, with 100 min as the length of time for completion. As if being a different day than was communicated, leaving it open for the last hour of the day without any notice. Very hostile...

During the day on August 10, Antony rejected my portfolio saying I needed to add a client name to the portfolio, even though it was already discussed the client name was confidential, and this was approved several weeks prior.

On August 13, after not hearing anything back since July 30, Jalisa wrote to me saying 'We know about the report you made to Respondent B's HR. Totally unrelated, but I provided an email to you with a form did you get it'?

At this point, all the ignoring seemed like punishment for going to Respondent B with my concerns about unlawful discrimination.

I wrote back the next business Monday (August 16,2021) explaining I'd sent the information Requested by Respondent A on July 30, even followed up on Aug 6, not to mention the other five emails Jalisa was copied on. I also requested that we address the issue between Respondent A and I before discussing Respondent B.

I didn't receive a response until Friday (August 20), stating my emails went to spam and asking me to resend the July 30th message.

I also wrote to Jalisa about my concerns for:

Beyond distressed, I wrote back the following Monday August 23 explaining I've lost an entire month of pay at this point so I'm not sure I could be expected to continue on like this. I get a response the same day asking for a meeting and I explained I wasn't comfortable meeting until the hours were confirmed. So at this point, Jalisa was representing no knowledge of why I hadn't been submitting hours, in addition to lost emails.

On August 24, I wrote to Jalisa explaining I was humiliated and it seemed they were constructively discharging me. Jalisa wrote back on the 24th suggesting the missing hours were my fault because I didn't submit them in a timely manner and also indicating "I've reviewed your payroll profile and I do not see any missed earnings". I guess Jalisa had no knowledge of the "Transition to Bench" memo??

as Missing From

On August 25, Jalisa wrote to me, basically saying okay let's skip the interactive discussion, here's some forms for a medical care provider, and I have no idea why you would think constructive discharge.

--note: the form sent by jalisa referenced an "attached description with list of job qualifications" but there was no such attachment with description of job qualifications.

On August 26, I wrote back again, I guess like a fool, trying to explain my concerns and referencing the Transition to Bench memo. That they were asking me to go without pay. Also expressing concerns about Antony and ignoring from staff generally.

On August 31, Jalisa wrote to me:

- (1) someone else would reach out to me about the interactive discussion for the accommodation, and I should wait for that email
- (2) I must begin full participation in all bench activities.
- (3) I needed to disclose the client name, and that my panel would be scheduled upon receipt of the updated portfolio.

I updated the portfolio on August 31. Even to this day, I never received an approval on the portfolio after this update.

September 2021

On September 2, 2021, still with no panel schedule, I wrote to Jenifer, the person who sent me the panel information, asking:

(1) for a good link to complete the assessment (2) if there would be a place for me to provide the explanation in writing.

Jenifer never responded to this email. It is also worth noting that no one ever pointed out 'hey we aren't scheduling your panel because there is no 'text' feature. No one ever said anything like Oh there is no text feature for the panel. Every single 'meeting' tool I'd used thus far with Respondent had a 'chat' feature.

September 3, 2021 I wrote back to Jalisa, also with hr department copied, explaining I updated the portfolio back on the Aug 31st, still no

Communications on the panel, and I wasn't sure what was meant by "full participation in all bench activities". I explained what I was doing to meet and check for requirements and also stated "if there are expectations in terms of activities that I should be participating in, that needs to be communicated to me?" Jalisa never responded to this email.

September 7, 2021, I receive a message from Sijuola stating "I will be sending you a calendar invite for us to connect later this afternoon."

So, I guess it was expected that I should be ready at any time since this was the first communication back after Jalisa's message from Aug 31.

I wrote back to Sijuola with the form data that I had sent to Jalisa back on July 30. When we met that afternoon, Sijuola was 15/20 minutes late past the time that was sent to me, had missed my email, and Jalisa hadn't passed my information along.

I have the text of what I shared during the meeting. It didn't really seem like there was any interest in having a conversation about an accomodation even after I asked Sijuola to read through what I'd provided for the form.

I felt like there wasn't any attempt try and have an 'interactive conversation'.

It was just 'ok , get us a doctor's note for the accommodation and we won't be addressing any of the concerns you've outlined for the time between July 26 - now.

I get an email from Sijuola with three attachments
1. ada request form

2. ada medical provider form

3. copy of software engineer job description with an explanation of why I would need it, even though I am the one who pointed it out that it was missing from the documents Jalisa sent me.

Also in this September 8 email from Ola, "please resume with participation in bench activities".

At this point, I've contacted both HR and Management and explicitly asked about "what the expectations" are (September 3 for HR and July 27 for Management), and sent countless emails about the panel, with no one answering me. The only reference I have for bench activities is the "Transition to Bench' document. I'm still waiting on the portfolio approval (to this day it was never approved after I changed it per Jalisa's request on Aug 31) and I'm still waiting on the panel information. The only other thing I can think of is to work on the industry certificate.

On September 10, 2021, I exchanged a series of emails with Sijuola, asking about a code/voucher for the certification exam, something I'd already asked about multiple times in July/August, although no one got back to me. I guess their original message was that I wasn't worth the resources. Sijuola did finally connect me with someone from HR about the certificate.

On September 17 (Friday), I received an email with the subject of "bench guidelines" from Antony. Keep in mind that I started the bench on July 26... The september 17 email included,

24 of 38

1. the expectation to submit portfolio within two days of returning to bench
2. Panel was to be completed within eight days of joining bench
3. the expectation to follow a schedule updated in slack

I was really upset after receiving this message, as if the ignoring and attempted scheduling of panel on a different day than what was communicated wasn't enough, this message didn't even include the slack link or how to access the slack channel. Keep in mind, at this point, I still haven't had access to the panel and I still haven't received the portfolio approval.

The following Monday and Tuesday (September 19, September 20) I forwarded the Bench Guidelines message to Sijuola explaining that I felt my rights were being violated and that the email didn't contain any information on how to access the slack.

On September 22, I get an email from sijuola asking about the Ada forms and also acknowledging my email about the bench activities, verifying whether I had access to the bench activities.

On September 23, I get an email from Julie with the subject of Formal Notice of Performance Deficiency. The email stated the following:

"Good afternoon, panielle. After your discussion with HR on 9/7/21, you were instructed to resume Bench activities in full. After over a week of continued nonparticipation, on 9/17/21, you were notified again by Antony of the expectations

Beclaved by LEOC Washington Fleid Office November 18, 2021 regarding Bench participation. At this time, you still have not participated in any of the required activities for your time on Bench.

This is formal notice that you are to begin Bench activities participation in full no later than tomorrow or escalation will be initiated."

- I tried to explain, I guess very foolishly so, that
- 1. September 17,2021 was the first time I'd received anything about bench activities beyond the panel and portfolio.
- 2. I'd been writing to them for months at this point with no answer
- 2. The panel still wasn't scheduled
- 3. I'd communicated to HR that I was working on a certificate
- 4. I wrote to HR about not having access to the slack link

I'd only used slack very birefly to set up an account in between training and client onboarding back in 2020. The entire training was conducted on the discord application, nothing to do with slack. For the short amount of time that slack was used in 2020, I needed specific links so I thought this was the same.

That week, I'd been working on a 'badge', a cloud assessment, and had finally finished on September 23rd. (the duration was multiple work days and I have documentation of when it was completed) I needed this badge to qualify for the certificate; this is what I'd mentioned to HR the week prior. Management and HR agreed that I'd had access to slack the whole time so all I had to do was login. I tried to explain that I didn't know that and that is why I was reaching out via email. Why didn't anyone from management at any point take even 30 seconds to write back to my emails just say hey why aren't you signed into slack? It would have been resolved immediately, they are the ones who were ignoring my communications.

Still on September 23, I wrote to Sijuola about the forms explaining that I would need HR to at least address some of my concerns in order to feel comfortable and have confidence the abuse would not continue. I also asked if I would be permitted to deliver the forms in person. Sijuola stopped responding after this.

On September 24, 2021, I joined the scheduled activity of "presentation of the week" and it was nothing to do with job related functions to Salesforce, there was literally a five minute presentation on a technical topic, and the rest of the time was a discussion about people's personal families, their pets, and personal holidays. I was wondering to myself why is it okay for them to send me a performance deficiency when I was actually working on work related things and I'd even communicated that to HR.

To make matters worse, for the next few weeks, several links for the activities weren't even posted in the channel that I was given access to. Several 'activity' links were often shared elsewhere, either on a different slack channel, one that I didn't have access to, or somewhere else that I didn't have access to.

September 27, 2021 I finally received the panel email from Jenifer, and this time the stated time is september 29 [9:00 am to 5:00pm]. I thought there would be a place to send text otherwise someone definitely would have said something at this point.

On September 29, 2021 the panel had no place for me to send any text. I was really upset that no one even bothered to say anything. It is worth noting that on all other tools used by Respondent for interactions (zoom, hirevue, discord, slack, teams) there is a place for text in the form of instant message or chat. It was as if they went out of their way to remove the text chat feature. I wrote an email to Sijuola asking why there was no place for text on the panel. I felt like this was super hostile. I never got an answer. I completed the panel and got a notification that the panel was successful.

I'm spending a lot of time crying.

At 6:00 pm on September 29, I get email from sijuola with the subject of "RE: Interactive Discussion - 2nd/Final Follow Up", this email was a response to the Sijuola's email from September 23, the one that I responded to, except that Sijuola seemed to have deleted my response in the chain of conversation, or maybe responded from the last email they sent, as to not moment. I explained I needed some reasonable notice. The conversation was needlessly difficult and Antony repeatedly insisted that I not miss the panel. I felt hostility but also humiliation like they thought it was funny. Antony was the one who repeatedly told me the wrong day for the panel back in August. Just felt like needless subordination and harassment.

October 6, I got an email stating "You were not selected for the interview on Jul 26, 2021 04:30 PM. If there are any questions, reach out to your Staging Manager."

I felt abused and it seemed Respondent A just wanted to make me this was just another attempt to make me quit. It was odd timing. I'd The interview from July 26, 2021 had gone really well. I know I've already mentioned we even discussed the work schedule. The interviewer worked with me in text with no problem. We reached a lot of specific terms for what the relationship would be like. The interviewer stated they were looking for someone to add to their internal team.

During the panel on October 7, I was told that I passed the panel.

I want to again bring up slack because several links for the 'activities' weren't even posted in the channel that I was given access to. Several 'activity' links were often shared somewhere that I didn't have access to. The Tuesday and Wednesday activity turned out to be not applicable most of the time to me because they weren't related to my tech stack. So, the whole telling me not to log hours because I missed work responsibilities, well, I wouldn't have even been participating in those activities even if I had logged into slack.

focus on the certification , so that is another example of how the cutting of hours was pretextual.

During the week of October 12, I responded to a request from Antony and Shanker for employees to volunteer and make a 'quiz' based on their tech stack.

On October 14, I got a voicemail and mail from Benjamin, employee of Respondent A, stating intent to discuss an opportunity with a client. It was an opportunity to join an internal team of the client. Benjamin sent me a pdf about the job and it even included "what is your prefferred way to communicate", I thought to myself, okay, this is a good start!

During a teams meeting on October 15, Benjamin didn't have much to say about the opportunity, instead, was most interested in my opinion on Respondent B, and how I felt about Respondent A. The conversation felt very disingenuous because it was presented as a new client but the conversation wasn't actually about that at all.

On October 15, I wrote a follow up to Benjamin asking if there was any availability to do a test interview before interviewing with the client. Benjamin wrote back saying 'oh actually you're not a good fit for this client'.

Also on October 15, I got a message from Shanker asking me to write a blog for Respondent A. I felt like wait, I'm not allowed to have an accommodation, or even have a real interactive process for one but you want me to write a blog for you? Aren't you supposed to be placing me with a client to work on Software Engineering? I basically responded with Sure, I'll write something but if this is going to Recieved by EEOC Westington Held Offitz November 18, 2021 be a regular thing then I should get paid at the client rate since you would be the client.

while not with a client, I was paid minimum wage. I almost felt like a trap of 'we have total control over whether to send you to a client, or not, so we can also just keep you at minimum wage and ask you to do work for us' - felt potentially exploitative.

November 2021

November 1, I got a missed call from Gabriel, employee of Respondent A. didn't leave any message. I wrote to Gabriel asking what the call was about. Gabriel wrote back stating intent was to confirm interest in a client opportunity, the client and would require me to be onsite in hallandale beach, fl (1000 miles away).

when I searched for the client online, the results showed it was a temp agency so I asked Gabriel to if it was a temp agency and how long the contract would be.

Gabriel confirmed it was a temp agency and had no idea on the contract length.

This was another regression of my employment opportunity. First Respondent A represented that employees were placed with a direct client for a two year program, then only after training, shorter contract lengths were introduced, then all the hostility...and now I was expected to be a temp with no indication on contract length? How could I reasonably plan for housing, or even a regular budget?

I wrote back to Gabriel saying a temp agency with no determined contract length was outside of the scope to what I agreed to.

33 of 38

November 3, I get an email from Antony saying 'I'm trying to reach you in slack' and Antony tells me the temp agency was the only opportunity. Respondent A wants a "Mutual Release" because no match for my skill set. I ask about going through a training to expand my skillset and Antony says it is not possible, even though the 'Training Agreement' had a provision that stated Respondent A would provide additional training if needed.

message sent in the slack channel, asking if people wanted to partcipate in a 'skills primer', I said yes except that in response to me, I was told the primer actually didn't happen, when it turned out that the primer did happen.

November 8, I get an email from Antony re-stating Respondent A's attempt to move forward with mutual release due to lack of demand.

November 10, I receive email with "Termination Letter- Commitment Not Complete"

Going back and reviewing the 'training agreement' there is language about how they had 'sole discretion' for the project I would be on.

would this be tortious interference??

Although I would never have imagined it would be used this way, perhaps it was their 'say' that moved me off of the project with Respondent B and also their 'say' on whether I joined the project for the interview from July 26. Basically, the manager from July 26 needed Respondent A's 'okay' to bring me on.

So, even if I had the interview for the temp agency and it went well, like the July 26 interview, Respondent A could have just said 'sorry you weren't selected, we've put you forth all our clients and no one wants to work with you' even though the entire time , whether I joined a client or not, and when I left or not... was Respondent A's discretion...
